Are you a graduate student interested in science?

Do you know how policy affects your science?

Looking for a career in science policy? Or maybe you don’t know what careers exist!

Consider joining SPAR!

We are an organization of physical, life, and social scientists looking to learn more about policy at all levels of government and how it affects the science we do every day. We seek to connect one another with those currently in the science policy fields and understand how we can become more engaged to make a difference in our community, both within Rutgers and beyond.

Learn More:

To sign up to receive information regarding our Fall 2018 events, fill out our General Interest Form.

For questions, you can contact us at rutgersnspg@gmail.com. You can also find us on Facebook.