SciComm 101:
Communicating Your Science

An interactive workshop brought to you by:

Science Policy and Advocacy at Rutgers (SPAR)
A Graduate Student Organization

SciComm is not about just telling people the facts. In this workshop, you will practice and refine your own skills to better communicate your research to colleagues, policymakers, and the general public.

When: Tuesday March 12th at 12:30 PM
Where: Biomedical Engineering Bldg. Rm. 122
Hosts: Emily Atieh – Chemistry & Chemical Biology
       Johnny Quispe - Ecology & Evolution
       Alanna Cohen - Microbiology
       Amin Khalili - Biomedical Engineering

We will provide lunch!
Please register for this event here: tinyurl.com/y35r4bsj